because all them people don't deserve paroles. That doesn't mean they should have paroles. But I'm asking that we go to a third of that and parole them people so we can close this facility. If you look at the next list of numbers of the total parole eligible inmates, go down to the bottom of that list where it says 485 have TRD less than six months. TRD means tentative release date. That means these people are going to be out within six months anyway. That's more people than I'm asking for the beds. But I realize that we are also going to have ongoing business as people coming into the prison and we'll be asking the Parole Board at least to take a look at trying to get more people out of there. They have been doing a little bit better. I can tell you on a national average which is on this for here, too, where it says parole population, Nebraska paroles about...average length of parole for our parolees is average of 9.4 months. The national average is 22 months. And you people know as well as I do some of them states have much more violent crime than we do. If you go on down that page of the handout you will see that parole eligible violent offenders are 495. I would say we don't even have to touch them because we have 1,044 of that 1,539 that are in there for nonviolent crimes. The bill itself would save $11,119,269. The amendment itself also says, in the bottom paragraph, that I want a million dollars of that put into the parole administration to expand parole supervision for these 500 inmates that we're talking about putting out. It would not be fair to put 500 inmates on parole in the next few months and not have a parole administration that can handle it. We need to use more electronic monitoring. We need to use global tracking. Global tracking today costs $7 a day. A person who is out and working can pay for that themselves. The amount that I gave you in savings would even be more than that, in all due respect, because the medical cost for these 500 inmates is not included in that $10 million that I just told you about. Medical expenses come under administration in the Department of Corrections. It's not included...it's not taken out by institution. I don't know if there's that big or not, but there's some states that are looking at passing legislation, there's one, I can't tell you which one it is, that passed legislation that says those people who even have life sentences who are on their death beds, they have passed legislation so they can release them people so they would be more eligible for
